On a recent visit to the clinton avenue police station in West Hoboken I discovered a peculiar state of affairs. The Captain was off duty, the Sergeant was at home asleep, having been in the station-house all the previous night, and the Department was left to take care of itself. No person was in the station-house, and the cells were all empty. The doorman was washing the windows from the garden at the rear, the only personification of the majesty of the law to be found in that neighborhood.

Riding over the granite hills of New Hampshire the other day I was surprised on meet ing Charles N. Vilas, of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, more especially as the particular section of the State where we met is not a common resort of Summering cityites. Mr. Vilas told me that he was on his boyhood stamping ground. He still loves the hill-environed spo of his nativity in Cheshire County, and has built him a cottage there, where he spends most of his Summer vacation.

I cannot approve of the facilities for reaching the spectacular play El Dorado at Weehawken, N. J. They are of the worst possible kind, and are the subject of bitter com-plaint from visitors. The North Hudson county Kallroad Company runs a single track to the entrance of the grounds, but this line can only accommodate about half a dozen like a heres and feel ble kind, and are the subject of bitter comcan only accommodate about and cars, and these are only operated at night.
